Kitbashing

a schism-inducing map-making TTPRG by Will Kibel

In the year XXXX, a schism opens up between dimensions, pushing four disparate worlds together.

If this is your first time playing, DON'T READ AHEAD. Read as you play.

What you need, for 4 players:

- 4 pieces of paper
- 4 drawing implements
- a deck of cards
- tape (optional)

General Rules

This can either be played as a roleplaying game or an art creation game. If you'd like to lean into the roleplay side of things, make sure there's a justification for everything you do. Have conversations outside of your turn. Go to town hall meetings. Create beef with other players. However, if you'd rather just see what kind of weird fractured map you can make, you can do that as well.

PHASE ZERO: Building Your Dimension

Pick a theme or genre for your town. If you need inspiration, feel free to choose from one of the following (or come up with your own)!

- zombie apocalypse
- frostpunk
- swamp creatures
- Ancient Roman
- steampunk
- American western
- vampires
- The Music Man
- nuclear wasteland
- cyberscape
- Atlantis
- Pacific Northwest
- prehistoric
- medieval fantasy
- your hometown

Then, pick three distinct features and three key resources for your town and draw them all on the map. Think about the logistics of how your town operates, as well as your motivation for putting things in specific places.

PHASE ONE: Dimensional Stability

It is a time of (relative) stability. You can continue to build up your town now, drawing cards from the red half of the deck. Every player follows the prompt on their own specific map.

Ace of Diamonds Discover something unsettling underneath the town.	Ace of Hearts Someone new is introduced to the community. How do they fit in?

OR Something mysterious falls out of the sky. What is it?	OR An outsider disrupts the community. How do you deal with them?
2 of Diamonds	2 of Hearts
3 of Diamonds	3 of Hearts
4 of Diamonds	4 of Hearts
5 of Diamonds	5 of Hearts
6 of Diamonds	6 of Hearts
7 of Diamonds Your most trusted advisor has a vision of doom. Move your most important building. OR Your most trusted advisor has a vision of doom. Stockpile a resource.	7 of Hearts
8 of Diamonds	8 of Hearts
9 of Diamonds	9 of Hearts
10 of Diamonds	10 of Hearts
Jack of Diamonds	Jack of Hearts
Queen of Diamonds	Queen of Hearts
King of Diamonds	King of Hearts

PHASE TWO: The Rift

After you run out of hearts and diamonds, you skip ahead some number of years. A rift appears in the very fabric of reality, tearing your dimension (and your town) apart.

Each player tears their map into rough quadrants. The boundaries don't have to be exact - in fact, they should be somewhat jagged. Take three of those quadrants and discard them, either by choice or by rolling a d4. Then, take a quadrant from each player and combine them into one map. You can use tape for convenience.

PHASE THREE: Resolution

Four worlds collide unexpectedly. Your towns must find ways to exist in this new, fractured situation. You must fight for your town's survival, whether through coexistence or domination. Draw cards from the black half of the deck. Each player follows the prompt corresponding to the card.

Ace of Spades Attempt to claim another town's primary resource for your own. OR Set up a system to donate resources to a neighboring town.	Ace of Clubs Start an argument with a neighboring town's mayor. OR Unite all four towns against a common enemy.
2 of Spades Build a new method of traversing the Rift. OR Fortify yourself against outsiders from across the Rift.	2 of Clubs
3 of Spades	3 of Clubs
4 of Spades	4 of Clubs
5 of Spades	5 of Clubs
6 of Spades	6 of Clubs
7 of Spades	7 of Clubs Strike at another town's Abundance
8 of Spades	8 of Clubs
9 of Spades	9 of Clubs
10 of Spades	10 of Clubs
Jack of Spades	Jack of Clubs
Queen of Spades	Queen of Clubs
King of Spades	King of Clubs